Cities & Counties in Eight States Select CivicPlus to Increase Online Community Engagement

CivicPlus Awarded 14 New Contracts to Design, Enhance Government Websites

MANHATTAN, KS – (October 17, 2011) CivicPlus, the leading developer of online community engagement systems, was awarded 14 new contracts in the past three weeks to design and enhance government websites for cities and counties in Texas, Illinois, Georgia, Florida, Kansas, Montana, South Dakota and California

In Texas, CivicPlus will develop new websites for Teague and Mont Belvieu, as well as for the Alamo Area Council of Governments' Call A Ride for Seniors. New websites also are being developed for the cities of Destin and Hollywood, FL; the Downtown Association and Development Corporation in Aberdeen, SD; and IL911INFO.org, a joint venture of the Illinois Chapters of the Association of Public Safety Communications Officials International and the National Emergency Number Association. The company also will redesign and refresh the look of existing websites in Riverside, GA; Elgin, IL; Deerfield Beach, FL; Shafter, CA; Billings, MT; and Mission Hills, KS.

CivicPlus specializes in using advanced technology to develop websites that increase citizen engagement, government accountability and operational efficiencies. The company is a certified GSA Schedule contract holder for the U.S. Federal Government as an Information Technology Service provider (SIN 132-51) under the IT Schedule 70. CivicPlus also holds statewide master contracts for web hosting and development services with the Kansas Department of Administration and the Texas Department of Information Resources.
